

"To Have and to Honor"

The Public Art Committee has partnered with the City Manager, A Reason To Survive (ARTS) and artist Francisco Morales to incorporate artwork into the City Hall Council Chamber and to bring the City's Core Values (7 C's) to life.

A series of works that reflect the culture and diversity of National City. Artworks that are sustained in the City's core values also known as the "7 C's," to create a cohesive and aesthetically pleasing artistic vision of the community.

Overview of both works installed at the Council Chamber.

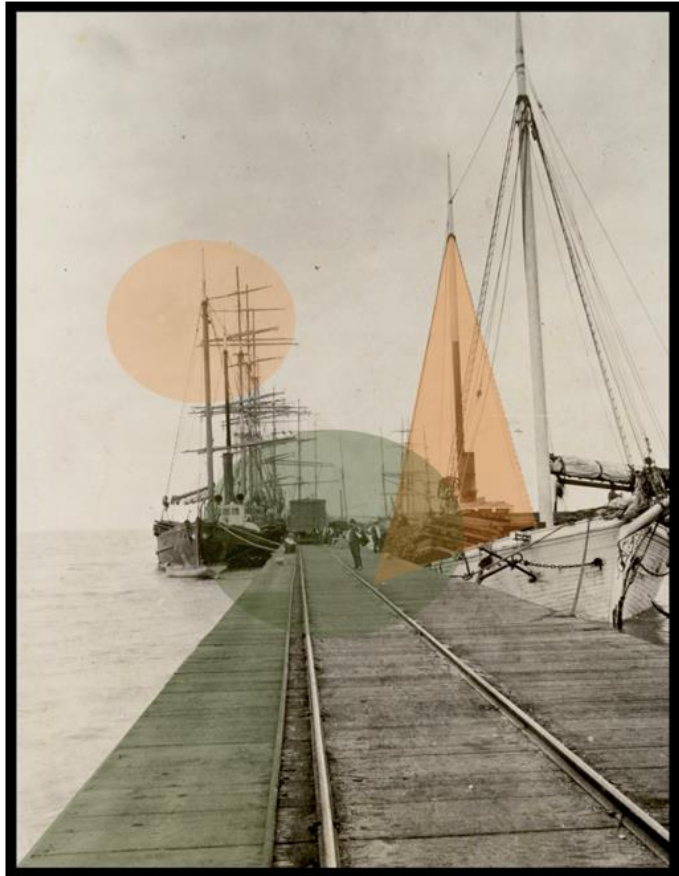

Detail of the first series that includes art by National City's kids who attended the summer camps at A Reason to Survive, 2021.

Detail of the second series. Historic photographs part of the National City's library photo archive, digitally intervened with geometric shapes that represent the present and a look into the future.
